Koorie Heritage Trust, Victoria
The Koorie Heritage Trust’s motto, “Gnokan Danna Munja Kor-Ki”, translates as Give Me Your Hand, My Friend – and it’s the perfect invitation to discover 60,000 years of Aboriginal history in Victoria. Explore the beauty, resilience and stories of the state’s Indigenous past and present at the trust’s gallery and cultural centre at Federation Square in the heart of Melbourne or take a walking tour to a significant Indigenous site in the city.

Ngurranga Tours, Western Australia
Ngarluma/Yindjibarndi man Clinton Walker set up Ngurranga Tours to show off his part of the world – the rugged red-tinged Pilbara region in the north of Western Australia – to the world. He’s particularly passionate about Murujuga National Park on the Burrup Peninsula, which is home to about a million rock carvings, but he’ll also take you to his favourite fishing spots, cook up a feast in an earth oven and share his knowledge of bush foods and medicine.

Lirrwi Tourism, Northern Territory
Arnhem Land, in the north-east corner of the Northern Territory, might be one of the world’s most undiscovered corners, but the Yolŋu people have called it home for tens of thousands of years. For them, the earth here is their mother, a guide, nurturer, healer. Lirrwi Tourism takes visitors to the “land and sea country” of the Yolŋu offering a glimpse of this incredible relationship through stories, art, food, dance, fishing and hunting.

Jarramali Rock Art Tours, Queensland
The Quinkan rock art, found around the tiny northern Queensland town of Laura, is remarkable in itself: named one of the 10 most significant rock art sites in the world by UNESCO. But getting to this remote locale with Jarramali Rock Art Tours is an unforgettable adventure, too. Travel to the Magnificent Gallery either by 4WD, crossing the wild terrain of the Maytown to Laura Coach Road, or take a helitour from Cairns, swooping over reef, rainforest and rugged sandstone escarpments to reach this extraordinary outdoor art museum.

Lirrwi Tourism, Queensland
The rich cultural traditions and extraordinary natural landscapes of Tropical North Queensland are the backbone of Culture Connect’s experiences that offer intimate, genuine connections with Indigenous owners through day, multi day or private charters. This could mean hunting for mud crabs on Cooya Beach with brothers Linc and Brandon Walker, watching artist Brian “Binna” Swindley creating work that overflows with Dreamtime stories or having exclusive access to the rock art rich Normanby Station near Cooktown.
